The Christmas Spirit

Elba High School's "Senior of the Week" is Patricia Clark. Patricia was elected December 15. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Clark. Patricia's favorite interests are being a major, since she is one, her hobbies are twirling and swimming.

Patricia doesn't have a favorite teacher. When asked she said, "all my teachers have been a great help to me." I'm very thankful for all of them. Her favorite class is English, because Mrs. Butts is always into something. She is a member of the Beta Club, Elba, Science Club, Band, Mu Alpha Theta, Junior Music Club and on the Elba Staff.

Patricia says it's hard to pinpoint qualities of a boy. She thinks pride and respect in one's self is most important, but he must be easy to get along with. Patricia loves her school. She only wishes it had the harmony and the "oneness" it used to have. And to make it better she believes everyone should get together and work for the good of the school as a whole.

Her pet peeve is someone who is constantly complaining and griping. After Patricia finishes high she plans to go to college and major in minor biology. The students of EHS wish Patricia the best of luck in everything!

Alabama Electric Pays $142,375 Taxes

Property and school taxes of more than $142,375 were paid in November by Alabama Electric Cooperative to cities and counties in South Alabama and Northwest Florida where the generation and transmission cooperative owns lines and facilities.

The taxes are on several generating plants, many miles of high capacity transmission lines, substations, land reservoirs and other facilities owned by Alabama Electric Cooperative.

The property and school taxes paid at the end of the year represent only a portion of the various taxes paid by Alabama Electric Cooperative. The cooperative also pays other direct taxes such as hydroelectric, gross receipts and payroll taxes, and indirect taxes on supplies and equipment purchased.

Based in Andalusia, Alabama Electric Cooperative is an electric generating and transmission cooperative owned and operated by distribution cooperatives and municipalities it serves in South Alabama and Northwest Florida. Organized in the early 1940's to provide power supply for the area, Alabama Electric has been a pioneer in rural electrification in South Alabama for the past quarter of a century.

Recording president Ray Jeffcoat pointed out that the electric cooperative pays all the taxes paid by private power companies except taxes on profits because it is not a profit making organization but operates on a cost basis. Personal property taxes, payroll taxes, sales taxes, special hydro-electric and gross receipts taxes are paid by Alabama Electric and at the same rate as by private power companies.

Jeffcoat pointed out that Alabama Electric is proud to serve South Alabama by bringing low cost power to its homes, farms and industries while still paying its fair share of taxes to support local schools, county, city and state governments. Jeffcoat said.

Brunson Is Publisher Of Another Book

A new book, "Blanchard and Allied Families," has recently been published by Marion Brunson. The book is a history and genealogy of the family of Mrs. Matthew Brunson who was Sarah Blanchard, a native of Columbia County, Georgia. Matthew and Sarah Blanchard Brunson moved their family to Coffee County in 1848 and are buried on Pea River about six miles north of Elba in the Woodland Grove Community. Seven generations of this family have lived in this county. They had a family of six children who had families Pinckney, Matthew, Silas, Eugene, John and a daughter Sarah "Sallie" who married LaFayette Morgan. Many descendants of these families live in Coffee County today and will be interested in the new book.

The 166 page book begins with the emigrant Blanchard ancestor to American and continues through 1970. This is the fourth book which Marion has authored. CHURCH IN THE HILLS

The little frame church in this snow-blanketed mountain village lifts its tall spire above its rugged environment like a sentinel guarding a sacred trust on a light-house on a rockbound coast.

Wherever man has pushed his habitations — in the bleak wastes of the polar regions, under the blazing tropical sun, or in the milder climates of the world — he has built his churches dedicated to the worship of God.

The fact that no community seems complete without its house of worship bears eloquent testimony to the universal recognition of man's need of religion.

The village church plays a vital part in the life of the community. The spiritual standards of the people are fashioned there; marriage vows are spoken at its altar, and the honored dead sleep in its sacred soil.

There it stands as every community — the little frame church — pointing the people to God, leading them the way of life, giving them strength and faith for every need.

Collier - Easters Exchange Vows

Miss Harriet Lynn Collier and Robert Douglas Easters, Jr., were married December 19 at 4:00 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Reverend James A. Auchmuty, Jr., performed the ceremony. Mrs. Paul King, organist, presented nuptial music. She accompanied Mrs. Jimmy Kirkland of Andalusia who sang "O Lord Most Holy" and "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Collier and Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Robert Douglas Easters all of Elba.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight crepe. The Empire line bodice was accented with seed pearls and lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a Camelot cap. A string of pearls, a gift of the groom, was her only ornament. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis.

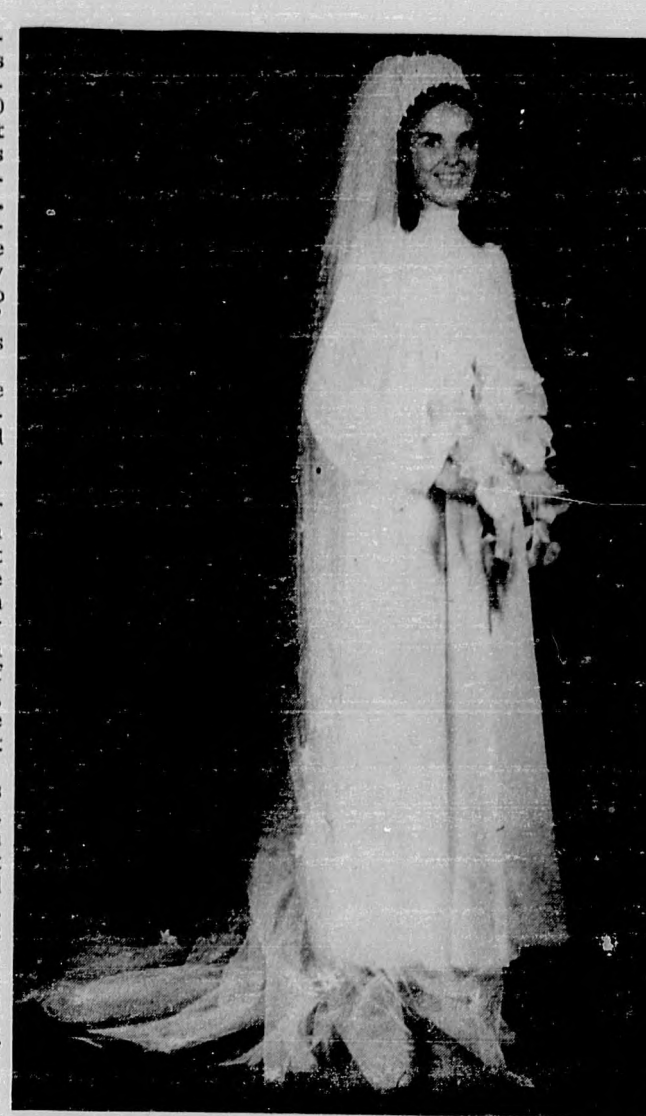

Miss Mary Collier was her cousin's maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of burgundy velvet with ivory lace bodice and carried a single red rose. Also attending were Misses Daisy Partridge of Demopolis; Judy Allen of Pine Bluff, Arkansas; Rochelle Hayden of Little Rock, Arkansas; Louanne Fears of Pensacola, Florida; Mrs. Mike Smith of Fort Walton Beach, Florida; Mrs. Danny Teel, Mrs. Jimmy Bryan and Miss Debbie Easters, sister of the groom, all of Elba.

The groom's father served as best man. He wore a tuxedo and carried a sword. The groom's brother, Mr. Robert Easters, brother of the groom, of Elba, was the ring bearer. He carried a small spruce branch out-holding the edges. Highlighting the table on either end were a three branched candle, Troy; Edward delabrum holding burning Collier, cousin of the bride, of Montgomery; Elbert Miller mums and green fern, Censon of Alexander City; Ja-cake adorned with white roses and lilies of the valley topped by miniature wedding bells. Serving were Mrs. Fred Clark and Mrs. Elba Collier of Montgomery.

The groom's table, accented with golden edgings, was centered with an ob-long chocolate cake, decorated with cascading chocolate icing grapes. The punch table, similar to the bride's table, held a crystal punch service encircled with red roses and green fern. Miss Louise Williams, Miss Nancy Brock and Miss Suzanne Prior served punch while sandwiches, mints and nuts were served by Miss Lyn Marsh and Mrs. Oscar Vaughan, Jr.

For traveling the bride chose a yellow pants outfit.

Following the wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Birmingham.

Class Of '61 Enjoys Class Reunion

Elba High School's graduating class of '61 held their first class reunion since graduation Saturday night, December 26 at the Elba Country Club.

The large party room was beautifully and brilliantly decorated in the Christmas theme. The buffet table held an artistic arrangement of miniature senior caps on which was written names of the class.

A reception committee composed of Janet Warr

King, Yvonne Bryan Niven and Ella Kate Allen Ham were at the door to greet their former classmates and their guests.

After a prayer of thanks by Mr. Elmer Taylor, Miss Mary John Smith led the guests through the buffet line. The table was literally filled with delicious foods. Each table where the guests were seated was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a low arrangement of flowers and red candles.

Following the meal Miss Mary John Smith, president of the '61 class and presently an instructor in the Speech Department of the University of Alabama, welcomed all class members and guests. She gave a special recognition to Mrs. J. L. Kennedy, a former teacher, who had been a member of the class.

After introducing husband or wife told where he is now living and in what profession or business he is engaged.

Elba Kate Ham read the '61 class history. Mrs. Janet King gave the class prophecy and Mrs. Yvonne Niven read the class' last will and testament. Mrs. McCollough created a bit of humor when she presented several awards to individuals for special accomplishments, such as having gained the most weight or lost the most hair since '61.

Mrs. Kendrick read an original poem dedicated to the class and an original character sketch of each class member in rhyme.

Following the planned program, the tables were removed and the group enjoyed an hour of dancing and reminiscing.

TRIMMING THE TREE. Mrs. Mack Wise is shown putting the final touch to the family Christmas tree recently. Climaxing the completion of her decorating work was the announcement that the Christmas decoration committee had selected her decorations for the "Best Tree Arrangement" for 1970.

The employees of the Peoples Bank, through payroll deductions, have paid $395.50 of a $448 pledge to the Lurleen B. Wallace Memorial Cancer Hospital Fund.

In appreciation of the employees' contribution, the Board of Directors of the bank have authorized a contribution by the bank to help completion of the Bryce Hospital-Partlow School chapel at Tuscaloosa.

When preparing a salad, lettuce will bruise less if the head is torn with the fingers rather than cut with a knife.

Meat kept in the freezer too long or packaged in containers that aren't moisture or vapor-proof loses its flavor and texture.

January, accident reports will be handled by computer. In Montgomery, a new form is designated to facilitate computer programming with code numbers designating certain facts.

Monday and Tuesday 67 law enforcement and public safety officers attended the session led by Captain William A. Hornby of the Dothan district of Alabama state troopers.

Wednesday and Thursday 54 additional troopers and local police attended a repeat of the session for those unable to meet the first of the week.

Sgt. H. D. Harwood and Cpl. Lamar Glover of Dothan drew a scale diagram of an accident scene while Sgt. Ned W. McHenry of Eufaula and Cpl. W. T. Moore of Troy explained the administrative portion of the form.

After the accident information has been established in the computer memory bank, troopers or local police will be able to feed in any intersection by code number to determine the number and the cause of accidents. The state highway department will be able to determine where enforcement should be concentrated, Sgt. McHenry said.
